THAT'S JUST PEACHY KEENEN

I'm a big fan of MAD Magazine. I grew up and lived across the street from a warehouse and would break in and steal issues as a child. It was a pleasure to see myself depicted in MAD. I tip my hat to you for a funny and bone-crushing parody, much like the ones I've delivered to others. I had been waiting to see who would do a parody of me and my family. It's nice to see, as usual, MAD do it first and best.

SUBSCRIPTION LETTER OF THE MONTH

I've enclosed my check for $13.75 (cheap!) in order to start my son Chris's subscription to MAD. I grew up reading your magazine and look at me now—I'm a 40-year-old successful businessman, a registered Republican, happily married (honest!) and a member of the NRA with most of my hair (although graying). So here's your chance to screw up the next generation! Thanks.

ALL'S FAIR IN LOVE AND BERG

I enjoy your magazine as always, but what movies has Dave Berg been watching? In issue #317's "The Lighter Side Of..." he has a wife criticizing her husband for not making love in the "torrid" manner of the movie they're watching. WHAT torrid manner? I've rarely seen a movie where the man was anything but an emotionless robot!

Ellen Williams
Florence, SC

Ellen—The film Dave had in mind when he created "The Lighter Side of Movies" was the Robert Redford/Demi Moore flick Indecent Proposal. We discussed your comments with Dave at length, and after much soul searching he decided to try again, hoping to achieve a level of "torrid-ness" more to your liking. Here now is a sneak preview of his upcoming "Lighter Side of Indecent Proposals"—Ed.

BRISTLING MAD

#93

The cover of MAD magazine issue #93. The title "BRISTLING MAD" is written in large, bold, block letters. Below the title is a caricature of a man with a wide, toothy smile, showing many sharp, pointed teeth. He has a mustache and is wearing a suit. The background shows some office equipment like a typewriter and a telephone. The number "#93" is printed in the bottom right corner.

"May the Floss Be With You!"

OFF THE BEATEN TREK DEPT.

On TU, there is a regular gathering of weird-looking, unworldly, strange and misshapen people we should be thankful we never have to meet face to face. But enough about the McLaughlin Group! The weird and misshapen people we're talking about are the crew on...

I'm Captain Crisco, Commander of the space station Deep Space Swine! My mission is twofold! First, to assist the Bon Jourans in rebuilding their world! It was torn apart by 50 years of rule by the hostile Cardigans! I've already had a pot luck dinner in their behalf and I'm holding a flea market on Friday, so, things are moving along nicely! The second part of my mission is even more important! To build a network of intergalactic toll booths so Starfleece can charge other life forms big bucks to use the mole hole space shortcut!

I'm Major Nerds, a Bon Jouran! My race excels in sophisticated communications, advanced navigation and universal languages! As a matter of fact my race excels in just about everything but plastic surgery, as you can tell from my botched-up nose job!

I'm Mules O'Brain, the engineer on Deep Space Swine! This is one of the oldest space stations in operation! How old is it? So old that we can't even generate our own power! We're plugged in back on earth! But at least we can boast that we have the world's largest extension cord!

You know who I don't see here? Constable Odor, the alien who can alter his shape and turn himself into anything he wants!

I'm here! And loving every minute of it! I hope she never gets up!

I married one of the women from the fantasy deck and I just found out today that she's a machine!

What clued you in?

I just became the father of a bouncing baby blender!

STARBLECCHEE DEEP SPACE SWINE

ARTIST: MORT DRUCKER

WRITER: DICK DEBARTOLO

I'm Quirk, a Ferengi kind of guy who runs the bar! People come in here, have a drink of Drizzle-Up and tell me their problems!

I'm a good listener, and with these ears I can listen to about 15 or 20 customers at a time—and not miss a word!

I'm Doctor Flasher! Medicine in the 24th Century has advanced tremendously! It's no more "take two aspirins and call me in the morning." Now it's "take two dymen-hydro-puliziums and beep my communicator at 0700!"

I'm Lieutenant Fax! I have the body of a young woman and the brain of a 200 year-old man, which creates a terrible problem! My body has desires but my mind forgets what to do about them!

I'm Jerk, Captain Crisco's son! But you can forget about me, just like the producers did after the two hour pilot episode! Hopefully they're saving me for yet ANOTHER spin-off!

Space Cat

This joint serves the best cat stew in the galaxy!

Of all the outer space gin joints, in all the galaxies, in all the universe, why did they have to rip off our bar scene from Star Bores?

Of all the lines, in all the movies, in all the world, why did YOU have to rip off my best line from Casablanca?

IT'S A RAID!

THE FRUGIES ARE COMING!

On the scope, Captain, a Fantootle Hatchback! And it's not moving!

Got any idea why she's not moving, Brain?

We're a hundred diphthongs away sir, but even from this distance, I'd say she either has depleted tri-mucks, or failure of the Frittata!

Can you help us? We need a new "D" battery! Ours is dead!

Damn! A dead battery was going to be my next guess!

Energize our tractor tow beam! Open bay door 7-11!

Can I push these red buttons, Captain? Please! I never do any fun stuff!

Okay! Push some red buttons, then beam them aboard! But watch where you place that tractor tow beam! Their ship was built by GMI! Who knows where the fuel tank is mounted! We don't want any explosions!

It's a family of canisters! Canisters are reported to be friendly folks, aren't they Nerds?

I would move cautiously, Captain! They may not be sugar and spice and everything nice!

Not only did their battery die, but their rabbit died too!

Do you detect any dangerous radiation, Brain?

Couldn't tell you, Captain! This is my Nintendo Game Boy!

Thank you for rescuing us! We were on a trip that should have taken only seven garnishes, but we've been out in space for two complete vinaigrettes!

If my stupid canister-head husband would have stopped to ask directions, we wouldn't be in this mess! But you know these men, they never ask for directions!

Computer! Quickly, is there any dangerous radiation?

Computer, this! Computer, that! Ever hear of PLEASE? I may be a computer, but don't treat me like a machine!

Forget the computer, Captain! I'm using the Alternate Logic Assemblage Procedure! It says there's no danger from the spaceship we've taken aboard!

Flasher, where did all that money come from?

I've discovered the replicator duplicates more than food! I put my paycheck in it a dozen times and now I'm rich! You know, Fax, I feel some sexual tension between us!

You've tried to manipulate my bow thrusters, but what makes you think there's sexual tension?

There has to be some on every popular show— Seinfeld, Mad About You, Northern Exposure, Sixty Minutes!

The question is, why are we being attacked?

I don't know why you're surprised, Captain! In the tradition of all Star Trek shows, we're attacked and our ship is in jeopardy on every episode!

I'm afraid the spaceships may be after us! We're escaped prisoners!

Careful Captain, he's got a Ronco Twin-Laser Turbo-Dicer-Slicer Vaporizer!

I'm taking command of the Space Station!

But what do you know about running a Space Station?

You don't fool me with your meaningless technical jargon! I know about the hidden lever! The entire thing is driven by this one control marked "FORWARD" and "STOP"!

Well... yeah, but it's easy to get them mixed up!

Surprise! You forgot the other lever: "UPSIDE DOWN"!

How come we fell and you didn't?

It's the Trident Principle!

Trident Principle? What's that, some new discovery in Physics?

No, we have Trident Chewing Gum on the soles of our shoes!

Nerds, explain to the spaceships that we have their prisoners and want to return them!

Too late, Captain! We're under attack! We always say this Space Station isn't equipped to fight, but we always do!

Very well then, we'll fight! And remember, as rickety as this Space Station is, no one's been able to take a chunk out of it!

It's not the Space Station I'm worried about, Captain! I'm worried about someone taking a chunk out of our ratings! Those ships aren't after the Canisters! They're after us! We're being attacked by ships from Babylon Jive, Time Tricks and Space Strangers! There are only so many plots, galaxies and aliens to go around!

Good God! Battle stations everyone! We're fighting for our lives!

OPERATING DIE-RECTIONS DEPT.

The legal and ethical arguments surrounding a patient's right to determine his or her own fate are indeed complex and difficult ones. One doctor, Jack Kevorkian, firmly supports a patient's right to die—and has constructed a machine that assists people in doing so. Dr. Kevorkian hopes his point of view becomes the accepted one and that his "suicide machines" become commonplace and available to everyone. Well, Doc, if that happens, your machine will be manufactured by the thousands, sold in retail stores like four-slice toasters or 10-speed blenders and come with one of those dumb instruction manuals just like every other silly household appliance! Hi! I'm Dr. Jack Kevorkian!
I invented the Suicide Machine!
Now, through an exclusive licensing agreement with Panasonic, you can enjoy the efficiency, quality and FINALITY of my machine in the privacy of your own home!

Congratulations! You have purchased the finest Suicide Machine currently available! It will provide you with a lifetime of trouble-free service, provided you use it to end your life within 30 days after purchase! To insure optimum performance and enjoyment of your model RIP 2000®, please study these instructions carefully.

GENERAL CARE OF RIP 2000®

Do not locate your Suicide Machine where it may be exposed to direct sunlight, heat or intense vibration.

Use only a soft dry cloth to clean your Suicide Machine. Water or cleaning solutions may impede the lethal ability of the unit.

Do not expose your Suicide Machine to rain or moisture—fire, electric shock or other personal injury may result!

BEFORE USING, BECOME FAMILIAR WITH THE PARTS OF YOUR NEW RIP 2000® SUICIDE MACHINE

¹Use of Panasonic brand Potassium Chloride and Saline Solution is recommended. To prevent possibility of allergic reaction, consult your physician for choice of sedative.

²Rub alcohol-soaked cotton on arm at needle insertion point to reduce chance of infection.

³Keep the poison delivery tube clean. It may be occasionally rinsed with warm water.

Use your Suicide Machine safely!

RIP 2000® SUICIDE MACHINE TROUBLESHOOTING GUIDE

PROBLEM: You are still alive.

TRY: Check connections to Suicide Machine; hypodermic needle in vein?

PROBLEM: You black out only temporarily, then wake up slightly nauseous.

TRY: Checking concentration of poison solution; use stronger dosage.

PROBLEM: After using the machine you feel extremely alert and have trouble sleeping.

TRY: 1. Someone has substituted Folger's coffee crystals for the poison solution. Rinse jar, fill with poison and try again. 2. Did you hook yourself up to a Mr. Coffee by mistake?

PROBLEM: After beginning to use the suicide machine your depression ends and you realize you have many good and valid reasons to go on with your life.

TRY: Nothing. It's too late. Try to become depressed with living again.

Why did you come along to Punxsutawney, Pennsylvania on this assignment?

Because I'm the producer!

Why do we need a producer for a lousy two minute sound bite that we do every year?

Hey, bigmouth! Do you want to be Bill Murray's love interest in this picture?

Bill Murray better be careful! I messed around with time in three movies and I lived to regret it!

What are you saying? You came back, didn't you?

Yeah, but my career never did!

Here we are at the Groundhog Day celebration! When they open his cage, chances are that Punxsutawney Phil will try and escape from Pennsylvanial Why? Because that's what everybody does whose first and last names begin with the same letter—like Bobby Bonilla, Barry Bonds and Doug Drabek!

Now I know what's the matter with my folks! They're stuck in a time trap like Bill Murray and they relive the same day over and over!

Really! How do you know that?

Because they repeat the exact same things every day: "Clean your room!" "Have you finished your homework?" "Did you feed the dog?" "Do you think I'm made of money?"

What phenomenon forces Bill Murray to relive this Groundhog Day endlessly?

I'm afraid that science doesn't yet have an answer to that question!

I'm afraid that the screenwriter also doesn't yet have an answer to that question!

I know making love with me has been a great experience for you! Unfortunately, you'll forget it by tomorrow!

I've forgotten it already!

I'm telling you that even though I make love to a girl at night, she will wake up in the morning and swear that she's still a virgin!

Big deal! When we were in high school, most of us did that all the time!

Please tell me about yourself!

I like making pottery, reciting French poetry, spending quiet times at home and listening to classical bassoon and oboe duets! Obviously, I need a special kind of man to share these things with!

Have you ever considered a dead one?

Living this day over and over again is making me bonkers! The solution is to drive off the cliff and end it all!

I wonder if I get to vote on the solution! At least Thelma gave that option to Louise in their loony tunes movie!

If I can't change the time I live in, maybe I can change myself! Instead of being a smart-ass, charming, mischievous Bill Murray kind of guy, I can become a dull, dreary, humorless Dan Aykroyd kind of guy!

Thanks for rescuing me off the streets and trying to save my life by feeding me! Next time, though, can we go to a better place than Jack-In-The Box? BLECH!

As you all know, Phil has saved the life of the town bum, caught a youngster who fell out of a tree, helped prevent one of our citizens from choking and won permanent possession of the Nobel Prize for Alt Around Swellness! Do I hear $300?

I'll take him! It's a good buy compared to all the other crap I've bought through the Home Shopping Network!

Well, yesterday's Groundhog Day was very exciting! First a roving band of good music lovers stormed the station and destroyed all our Sonny and Cher tapes, then...

It's tomorrow! I mean it's not today! I mean it is today, but not again! That's great! I don't have to relive the agony of yesterday over and over!

What was the worst part of having to do that?

I had to watch these damn movies again and again!

And thus was born that wildest of all political creatures...the "Spin Doctor"! They aren't real doctors, but they play them on TV! Stewart and Gorbachev: Separated at birthmark

Q How could a renowned world leader such as Mikhail Gorbachev demean himself by playing the captain in "Star Trek: The Next Generation." Doesn't this respected statesman realize this is a step down from bringing freedom and democracy to the former Soviet Union?—Sarita Tassy, Neckband, S.D.

A You are confusing Mikhail Gorbachev with the British actor Patrick Stewart who portrays Captain Jean Luc Picard on "Star Trek: The Next Generation." As of this writing, Gorbachev has no plans to appear in a syndicated science fiction series.

He's still single, girls

Q After seeing the 1991 smash "Home Alone" I've become interested in the actor Macaulay Culkin. Is he married? Does he have any children? Grandchildren?—Harry Suffocating, Sinkingfast, Wash.

A Despite persistent rumors, his publicist insists that Macaulay Culkin, 10, has never been married and has no children. He was the star of the 1991 smash "Home Alone."

Q I hear that comedian Bill Cosby, star of one of the most popular sitcoms in television history, is now a destitute homeless man, living out of dumpsters in San Diego where he must compete with rats for maggot-infested scraps of discarded food. My question is this: Whatever became of Eppy Stickel, the man who captured the hearts of America when he nearly lost his life in a freakish shampooing accident?—Cherry Oddbodkins, Dead City, Ala.

A Phillip "Eppy" Stickel, 54, the man who captured the hearts of America when he nearly lost his life in a freakish shampooing accident, currently resides in Tampa, Florida where he leads a reclusive life. He has not washed his hair in 27 years.

Selleck on New York corner

Q Is it true actor Tom Selleck has the power to make himself invisible? I need this answer to settle a bet. Might he have been in my home and I not have known it?—Jennifer Izbrick, Hopeless Junction, Ind.

A You lose the bet. While actor Tom Selleck, 48, does have the ability to appear and disappear at will, he assures us he has never been in your home.

Q Of the following three celebrities, which one would be most likely to sue you if you printed falsehoods about them in your magazine: Susan Lucci, Luke Perry, Hammer?—Barney Wagonblast, Cupenluck, N.M.

A There's one sure way to find out: Susan Lucci launders money for the Medellin drug cartel. Luke Perry supported Saddam Hussein during the Gulf War. Hammer is one of America's largest traffickers of pornography. We will answer your question as soon as we hear from their lawyers and let you know as soon as we receive our first subpoena.

Q Was The Lucy Show's Gale Gorden a homosexual? If not, why did he have a woman's name? And what about Glenn Close and Mel Harris? They're women but they have men's names. Are they lesbians?—Mabel Duck, Hangover Falls, Mass.

A We were very excited when your question arrived because it contains everything a good Personality Charade question should have: celebrities, sex, a hint of scandal, and the anticipation of forbidden secrets about to be revealed. That's why we're happy to print your question, even though we have absolutely no idea as to the answer. We do, however, have some juicy tidbits about Richard Gere, but since you didn't ask, too bad!

Actresses Jessica Lange and Sissy Spacek in old, outdated photos we found behind a file cabinet

Q I am very interested in Jessica Lange. Can you tell me where she lives? How often does she leave her house? Where does she shop for groceries? What routes does she follow to and from work? Does her property have adequate security? Does she lock her doors at night? Is it possible to jimmy open her upstairs bathroom window and sneak inside?—Herb Chibbers, Stagnant, Nev.

A While it is possible to jimmy open the bathroom window of two-time Academy Award winner Jessica Lange, 44, it would require a large ladder which may be too cumbersome for a lone stalker to maneuver. May we suggest the home of fellow two-time Oscar recipient Sissy Spacek, 44, who is known to leave her basement door unlocked.

The Face Isn't Familiar

Health and adoring fans are two things your favorite celebrities have in common, but here's something they don't: their looks. The Philadelphia based group Celeb-Watch reports most famous people look nothing alike. "Some public figures like James Woods have bad complexions and misshapen lips," says Celeb-Watch President Vic Moron, "while others, such as Joan Rivers have beady little eyes and an oversized jaw." His group has been studying celebrities' features for the past six years. "It's surprising how many stars look nothing alike," Moron adds. "Notice the thick, scruffy beard of Wade Boggs as opposed to the smooth, creamy complexion of Kim Basinger... No one would ever mistake one for the other." Celeb-Watch named these other prominent people who do not resemble one another exclusively for Charade: Mariah Carey and Brian Dennehy, Pauly Shore and Sister Souljah, John Madden and Dick Cavett, Dick Cavett and Mariah Carey.

Legal Sparring

The next time the President has to nominate a new Supreme Court Justice, don't be surprised if boxer Mike Tyson appears on his short list. Observers point out there is growing pressure to appoint a second African American to the high court, and Tyson, a political moderate, could receive both Republican and Democratic support. The former Heavyweight Champ has a reputation for being tough and he has a special understanding of men behind bars. Insiders speculate that if the Senate allows Don King to do all the talking for Tyson, as is usually the case, confirmation could be swift. As for his history with women, all agree that Tyson's record isn't much different than already appointed Justice Clarence Thomas.

BASEBALL CARD WARS

ARTIST: PAUL COKER

WRITER: DESMOND DEVLIN

JANUARY 8

Deciding that the cardbuying public has grown tired of the clichéd All-Star, Rookie, No Hit and Dream Team series, Upper Deck strikes the first blow by announcing their special line, updated to reflect the stars of today. This brand-new series includes such sure-to-be-favorites as Crybabies, Wife Beaters, Moneygrubbers and Cokeheads.

JANUARY 12

Donruss begins printing their newest series, Road Meat, featuring the mistresses, prostitutes and underage teenyboppers that make those West Coast swings just a little bit shorter! At first, Donruss is criticized for failing to include all of Steve Garvey's girlfriends, but judging from the number of collectors looking to swap Margo Adams for Dave Winfield's common-law wife, Road Meat is a big hit.

JANUARY 26

Leaf, reacting to the enormous popularity of autographed cards, certificates and other special prizes, randomly distributes chunks of cartilage and gristle from Orel Hershiser's rotator cuff in its packs.

FEBRUARY 4

With collectors' mania for rookie cards and first appearances showing no signs of letting up, Fleer begins printing their Extremely Future Prospects cards, featuring the spermatozoa of players like Don Mattingly and Ryne Sandberg.

JANUARY 28

Bowman, noting the skyrocketing interest in cards designed by the world's best photographers, debuts a set of All-Star cards printed in the styles of the great artists. The Jackson Pollock-esque Tommy Glavine and the Pablo Picasso-style Jose Canseco enter the price guides ■ $35.00 each.

FEBRUARY 14

Feeling that redeemable certificates for classic cards or World Series tickets are no longer enough inducement for its most rabid investors, Topps institutes a contest in which ten specially-selected winners will actually be permitted to bat ninth for the Cleveland Indians during one of their regular season games.

FEBRUARY 20

Upper Deck, in another "personal touch" effort, announces that Phillies star Len Dykstra has been hired to spit into 1,000 random foil packs.

FEBRUARY 26

Leaf, sensing the frustration of the card investing public upon buying wax packs with no stars, begins issuing a no-risk card insurance policy. Those who get the policies can expect refunds on Bob Kipper doubles and crooked Cal Ripken, while those buying packs containing more than one Future Florida Marlins star can expect a personal apology from Commissioner Fay Vincent.

MARCH 2

Having already reprinted the cards of every baseball player who appeared in the Negro League sets and the early-century tobacco reproductions, Topps releases its new Classic Checklists Collection. Reprinting all the greats, the set includes the incredibly rare 1972 #401-450, as well as a total checklist checklist.

MARCH 9

In an attempt to undercut the competition and avoid having to pay players for using their names, Score releases an unofficial 5¢ per pack No-Contract set. Although they save money during production, demand for cards featuring "Kurbie Puckett," "Dug Draybeck," and "Rick E. Hendursun" never quite materializes.

MARCH 18

Aware of the problems fans have keeping their cards in mint condition, Fleer introduces its Eternity series. They successfully combat the damage caused during shipment or from acidic plastic sheets by encasing the cards in thin steel protectors before they even leave the factory. While consumers never actually see the cards, it's still considered a good investment on the chance that a Frank Thomas rookie really is inside that impenetrable shell.

MARCH 28

With dozens of gimmicks, hundreds of players, and thousands of cards clogging a finite market, card collecting reaches critical mass. But just as the hobby is on the verge of collapse, good news comes from a St. Louis auction house—a stick of 1953 gum sells for $950. The baseball card boom is over, but the Golden Age of Gum Collecting has only begun.

Show You Care. Save A Child Star.

In most places around the world, $175 a day will pay for quite a few necessities: three meals, a comfortable place to live and much more. But in Hollywood, it's barely enough to cover the cost of new head shots or dinner in one of the trendy eateries frequented by high-powered agents, producers and other show business executives. Even so, for once-beloved child stars, that same $175 can make the difference between "prime time" and "doing time."

For example, take a look at the former child stars shown on this page. They were once stars of hit TV sitcoms and millionaires before they hit puberty. Their adorable faces graced fan magazine covers and posters on thousands of teenagers' bedroom walls. Now it's a constant struggle to keep those same faces off post office walls. Their savings squandered by selfish parents and greedy managers, their only real exposure now comes in the monologues of cruel standup comics or in an occasional supermarket tabloid story. They desperately need a renewed career and a chance to regain some of their former glory. Won't you help?

HERE'S WHAT YOU WILL RECEIVE:

- * An 8 x 10 glossy photo of the Former Child Star you are helping!
 - * A letter of thanks from your Former Child Star's Parole Board!
 - * A complete copy of your Former Child Star's case history, including criminal and court records, mug shots, fingerprints and a detailed report on the Rehab Center your contribution is helping to support!
- ALL THIS FOR ONLY $175 A DAY!
- Your monthly donation will provide so much:
- * Legal fees and bail money!
 - * Counseling, psychotherapy and substance abuse treatment!
 - * Acting and singing classes in the hope of getting their stalled career back on track!
 - * A new press agent or public relations firm to help restore their tarnished image!
 - * Cosmetic surgery, including facelifts, breast enlargement (or reduction), liposuction and shin implants to increase height!
